Why you need product inspection

It is very tough to manage the quality of your products manufactured outside of your country when you have other works at hand. You may not have the time to manage all of your factories with product qualities; and it can eventually lead to the distribution of defective products and the increase in financial and reputational damage risk to your business.

In order to verify product quality before products are distributed, factory inspection must be conducted at the production site. Along with material and product testing, inspection is an effective way to determine if your products meet specifications.

FITI Inspection Services

During Production Inspection

During the early stage of production, we randomly inspect the first production batch of the product for possible defects. When defects are found, we identify the deviation and provide advice on the corrective measures that are necessary to ensure consistent product quality.

Final Random Inspection - Fabric

We inspect fabric materials during pre-production inspection for apparels. Inspectors focus on consistency in color and construction of fabric to ensure that the finished products have even quality. Eliminating quality issues at this early stage of production may prevent future problems and help you save time and money.

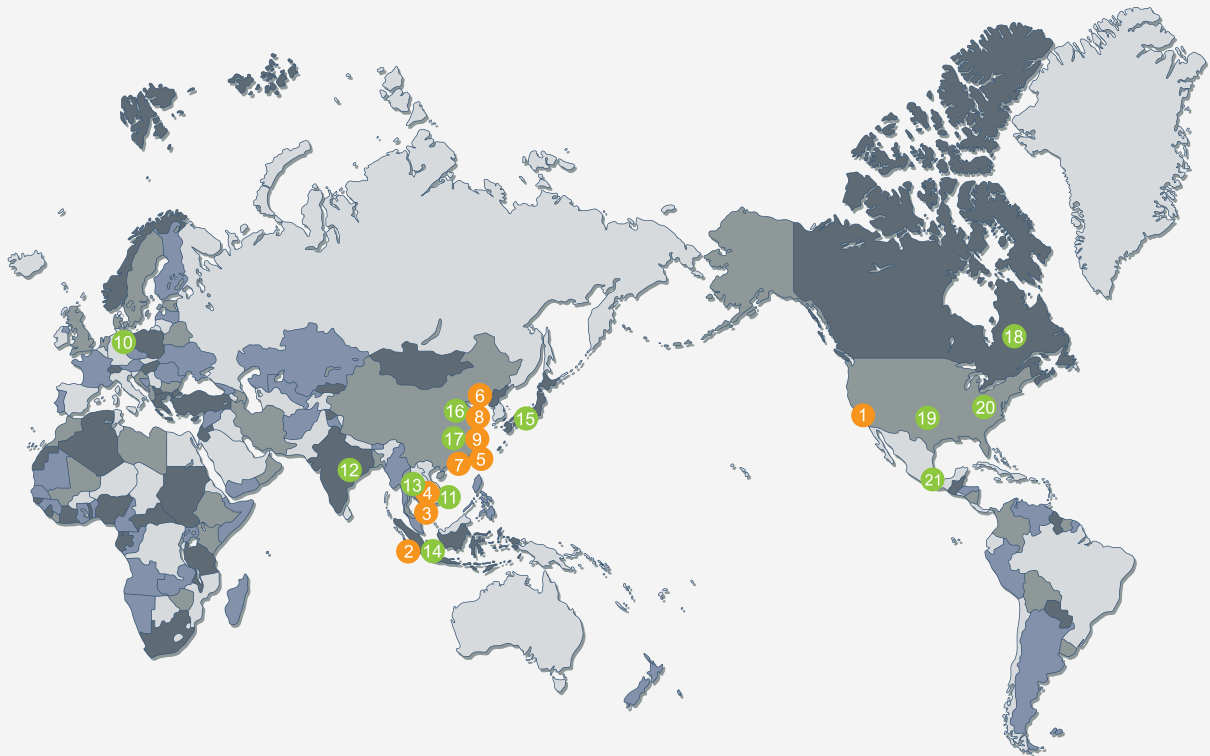

Final Random Inspection - Apparel

The products ready for shipment must be checked to make sure that they are ready for sale. From product quality to packaging, we offer our clients thorough inspection to identify any problems before products are distributed. Depending on the amount of products, a certain number of samples are randomly chosen and reviewed against initial specifications.

100% Inspection

For merchandises of high value, any defects found in products may cause serious damage to the brand. In order to meet high expectation of customers, quality of these special products must be checked with more detailed inspection such as 100% Inspection Service. FITI's 100% Inspection Service includes quantity, quality, labeling and packaging check on entire lot of finished products. 100% Inspection result may be used as marketing tools to prove your product quality.
